

Well when I was at my friend house his dad be selling a lil weed to get on his feet and stuff but he sell from in his house and my friend saves up his checks he be getting in the mail. So my friend house got raided and they found my friend money all the way upstairs and the weed they found was downstairs. My friend had like $4,000 saved up to go towards college they took all of it saying it was drug money. The money wasn't no where close to the weed his dad was selling. And I know they knew it wasn't drug money because the cops asked how much was it he said it did on point. They just laugh and put it in a bag and left. They didn't take no one to jail just his dad.

I was walking home coming from Raccenter cop pulled up on me he jumped out the car, put me in handcuffs, put me in the car, they said I fit the description of the robbery. I told them it wasn't me I was sweating so I know it might look like me but I told them just came back from playing basketball, didn't believe me. The took me to these people house, the people told them I wasn't the person that did it. The cops got back in the car, started driving and I said to him told you it wasn't me. He was mad, took me through this ally, let me out pushed me on the ground, shut the door and drove off.
